POETS IN DREAMLAND

WORK DONE OR IMAGINED WHILE WRAPPED IN SLUMBER.

Stories of Sublime Verse That Was Born During Sleep Only to Die In the Waking of the Author—The Gem That Coleridge Lost.

In Sir Mountstuart Duff's "Notes From a Diary" it is related that the late Lord Lytton, when viceroy of India, had repeated to his guests on one occasion a poem which he professed to have composed when asleep:

There are boating and sailing
And fishing for grayling
Where the blue waves roll nightly on deep Galilee.
But sweeter the places
Where aldermen's braces
Are sold for boot laces in bonnie Dundee.

The diarist ventured to doubt whether the viceroy was not trying to impose on the credulity of his friends, a suspicion which will be shared by most readers.

But, whether these lines were dreamed or not, there can be no doubt that one of the most curious sections of the whole subject of dream work is that which relates to the comparative value of work done or imagined in sleep. No experience is more general than the waking from a particularly vivid dream only to find that in the very process of waking the whole vision, apparently so real and strong for a brief moment, vanishes beyond recall. This dissolving touch of psychical or dream life is like the contact of the air with a long entombed, well preserved human body suddenly exposed to the light of day. While the tomb openers gaze upon the features so strangely preserved from a long past day the touch of the air does its work, and the relic of humanity crumbles to dust.

A strange point about the difficulty in keeping in mental grip of a dream is that, although no detail can be remembered, an impression remains which in cases that have been tested has often turned out to be quite incorrect. It is related by Mickle, the Scottish poet, best known as the translator of the Portuguese epic, the "Lusiad" of Camoens, that he always regretted he could not remember the poetry which he composed in his sleep. It was, he said, so infinitely superior to anything he could produce in his waking hours. One morning on waking he was lamenting, as he had so often done before, that he should be conscious of having composed such sublime poetry and yet be unable to recall a word of it. "What!" said his wife, who happened to be awake. "Were you writing poetry?" "Yes," he replied, "and such poetry that I would give the world to remember it." "Well, then," said she, "I did luckily hear the last lines, and I am sure I remembered them exactly. They were:

"By heaven, I'll wreak my woes
Upon the cowslip and the pale primrose!"

Mr. Mickle was probably cured of his habit of lamentation.

The late Lewis Carroll noted in his "Diary" that he once heard Tennyson relate that he had often dreamed long passages of poetry and believed them to be good at the time, but could never remember any of them on waking except four lines which he dreamed at ten years old, and these were the moving verses:

May a cock sparrow
Write to a barrow?
I hope you'll excuse
My infantile muse.

This, as the diarist remarks, as an unpublished fragment of the late laureate, "may be thought interesting, but not affording much promise of his after powers." On the same occasion Tennyson told his hearers that he once dreamed an enormously long poem about fairies, which began with very long lines that gradually got shorter and ended with fifty or sixty lines of two syllables each!

On the other hand, poets have occasionally found their dreams of service. Southey in a letter to his brother says: "I forgot my dreams and have no Daniel to help out my recollection, and if by chance I do remember them unless they are instantly written down the impression passes away almost as lightly as the dream itself." But he goes on to say that one or two of his dreams were noted at the time and were afterward incorporated in scenes of his now little read poem, "The Curse of Kehama." And then, of course, there is the familiar story of Coleridge falling asleep one summer afternoon in a quiet farmhouse after reading about the Khan Kublai in Purchas' "Pilgrimes," composing several hundred lines in the course of a three hours' sleep, waking, and at once beginning to write them down, only to be interrupted at the fifty-fourth line by a visitor—that "person from Porlock" whose memory is execrated by all lovers of poetry—with the result that on returning to his desk an hour later the poet found that the rest of his dream verse had faded from his memory. "Kublai Khan" remains a melodious fragment, but if the "person from Porlock" had only lost his way or had come to grief sufficient to cause a delay of an hour or two we might have had a completely beautiful poem.—London Globe.

The Kind Mother Used.

The bride was out marketing for the first time. She had ordered a generous number of eatables, and the next on her list was eggs. "I shall want a dozen," she said.

"Will you have case eggs?" asked the clerk.

"Really, I don't know," answered the girl, wrinkling her pretty forehead. "If I recollect, mother always used hens' eggs."—New York Press.

He who has health has hope, and he who has hope has everything.—Arabian Proverb.

STEVENSON'S THEORY.

Tantalizing Tale of the Novelist and a Detective.

Scotland Yard would no doubt scorn to take a story writer into its councils as an American detective consulted R. L. Stevenson. Arthur Johnstone in his "Stevenson In the Pacific" tells the striking tale, leaving you, however, tantalized with the desire to know what the case was and what were the respective solutions of the professional and the amateur detectives, says T. P.'s London Weekly.

As they sat together one evening on the veranda of an inn at Waikiki the detective confided to Stevenson a case of extreme difficulty he had in hand and also his theory of its solution. As Stevenson hardly seemed to attend, for he sat looking dreamily at the sea, the detective left him to have a chat with the more responsive landlord.

On his return to the veranda, however, Stevenson suddenly roused himself to say: "I think I have solved that riddle of yours. You see, it's just like writing a story. If you go at it right, it will work out right. Now, your theory does not do at all because it will never work out. Let me give you my theory of the case, and then tell me what you think of it."

The detective did not at first think anything of Stevenson's theory of the case. It was daring even for a theory and dangerous to work if it did not happen to come off. But on thinking it well over, with Stevenson's shining eyes fixed intently on his face, the professional began to believe there was something in it.

When Stevenson at last asked triumphantly, "Well?" he replied, "Well, sir, I shall try your theory, but if it doesn't win you and I will lose between us the thousand dollar fee I am to be paid for a conviction." At this Stevenson laughed and said, "Sir, if it doesn't win I will pay you the thousand dollars and throw you the theory in for nothing." But it won.

RACING WITH OXEN.

An Odd Sport Popular In Rural Districts In Germany.

In many of the out of the way districts of Germany ox racing has long been a very popular sport. The entrance fee for the races is small, but the beasts must be ridden by their owners. The rider is not allowed to have either whip or spur, and he must ride his animal bareback, trusting to his voice to guide the beast. It is here that the skill of the rider comes into play, as everything depends upon the training of the ox and the ability of the owner to direct his movements. As the oxen do not race on a track it is no easy matter to guide them. The race course is a field perhaps a mile square, the start being made at one side and the finish at the other. Speed is of secondary importance in the race. Like golf, the sport requires accuracy, and the rider who can force his lumbering charger to go in a straight line is certain to win.

When all the competitors are lined up at the starting point the signal to begin the race is given. Then the fun commences, for in spite of the riders' efforts the steeds usually refuse to head toward the finish mark. Besides, the difficulties are greatly increased from the fact that the onlookers are allowed to be in the field and may do anything to interfere with the contestants so long as they do not touch him or the beast. Though oxen are naturally the least excitable of animals, the noise of the spectators soon reduces them to a state of utter bewilderment. Often an hour will pass before one of the oxen is ridden under the wire. The victor receives a small money prize, which is nothing compared to the honors brought him by his victory, and the animal is decorated with garlands of flowers. Among the peasants great events are reckoned from the time So-and-so won the ox race.—New York Herald.

Not a New Custom.

Laxity in public worship has long been a theme for preachers. In 1743 one of them wrote of the congregation of St. James', Piccadilly, London, that "they seem to be more taken up with viewing and contemplating each other's dress and equipage than in paying their devotions to the Divine Being they pretend to adore, and it is usual to see this set of people bowing to their neighbors, with a 'Glory be to the Father' in their mouths." And again, "The ladies show surprising memories on this occasion, being able to relate on their return home what clothes every woman of figure had on from head to foot, the fineness of the lace and the color of every ribbon worn in the assembly."

Longfellow on Error.

The little I have seen of the world teaches me to look upon the errors of others in sorrow, not in anger. When I take the history of one poor heart that has sinned and suffered and represent to myself the struggles and temptations it has passed through, the brief pulsations of joy, the feverish inquietude of hope and fear, the pressure of want, the desertion of friends, I would fain leave the erring soul of my fellow man with him from whose hand it came.

Discouraging.

"No, my little girl, I can't lend your mother any flour or oil or butter or potatoes or lamps or potatoes or anything else that she sent you over for, but go back and tell her I have a lot of trouble she can borrow."—Baltimore American.

The world generally gives its admiration not to the man who does what nobody else attempts to do, but to the man who does best what multitudes do well.—Macaulay.

CONVERTED HANNA.

Editor Cowles Taught Him a Lesson In Pocket Picking.

Edwin Cowles, long editor of the Cleveland Leader, numbered among his accomplishments that of pocket picking. Of course he picked pockets as an amateur only, but it is doubtful whether there ever was a professional who could play the light fingered game more skillfully than the able editor did occasionally for fun.

It was during the administration of a mayor who had been elected as a protege of M. A. Hanna, who was then starting in Cleveland upon the political career which gave him national prominence, that the Leader began a crusade against vice. Articles were published daily in which it was asserted that the city was full of thieves, gamblers and other crooks, and the mayor was taken severely to task for not having them driven away. Hanna, being the power behind the municipal throne, came in for censure in an indirect way, and, meeting Cowles in the street one day, he expostulated with him concerning the Leader's style of warfare.

"Look here, Cowles," he said, "what's the use of all this racket? You're making a mountain out of a molehill. There are no more crooks in town than there have been right along, and it would be foolish to expect any mayor to drive all the lawbreakers out, no matter how hard he tried or how good his intentions might be."

Cowles insisted that his paper was right, and he expressed the belief that there were then more pickpockets in Cleveland than had ever before infested that city.

"Pickpockets!" snorted Hanna. "I don't believe there's a pickpocket in the town. And, anyway, I have no sympathy for anybody whose pockets are picked. No one but a jay could ever be robbed in that way."

"You don't know," said Cowles, "how skillful some of these light fingered fellows become. It would be possible for one of them to go through your pockets while talking to you as I am now."

Hanna laughed derisively and said any pickpocket that ever got a hand in his clothes without being caught at it was welcome to anything he could extract.

As they were parting Cowles turned to ask what time it was, and Hanna felt for his watch.

It was gone.

"That's strange," he said. "I guess I must have forgotten when I dressed this morning to put it in my pocket."

"Speaking of forgetting things," Cowles answered, "I forgot my wallet when I left home. Could you lend me $10?"

Hanna felt for his money, but found none. He put his hands into one empty pocket after another and was beginning to look sheepish when Cowles handed him back his watch, his money, his keys and a bundle of letters.

"Very well, Cowles," said the future senator; "I'll see what can be done about driving the pickpockets away."—Chicago Record-Herald.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

A sign of a happy marriage: When a man says his wife spoils him.

Did you ever think how much trouble was caused in this world by blabbing?

It sometimes happens that in getting out of a rut a man finds himself in a hole.

A family row is as bad as a church row, but the limit is reached when they are mixed up.

This is as true as gospel: If you make a visit longer than a couple of days, your left ear will burn after you go home.

One of the great wonders to a man is the number of interruptions a woman can endure while eating a meal without noticing it.

When a crime is committed, suspicion turns quicker to those who once loved the victim than to those who once hated him.—Atchison Globe.

TIRED OUT.

There's many a wife sits in the growing shadows of an evening, knowing what it is to feel tired out; as if there was not another ounce of effort left in her. But if healthy she knows how sound her slumber will be and how refreshed the morning will find her. But it's another thing for the sick woman to feel tired out. Rest only seems to increase her suffering. She feels acutely the aching back and throbbing nerves. Sick women, hundreds of thousands of them, have been made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I am pleased to inform you of the benefit I received from using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Elizabeth A. Oswald, of 45 Brant Street, Windsor, Essex Co., Ontario, Canada. "Was quite discouraged when I wrote asking your advice, as the physicians here told me I could get no relief except by an operation. Suffered for four years from irregular and profuse menstruation, had sick and nervous headaches most of the time, and at times could hardly walk across the floor from weakness. I thank God there is such a remedy as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for suffering women. Before I had taken the first bottle the headaches had left me and it was not long before regularity was established and still continues so. Have just finished housecleaning which I never expected to be able to do again, and can truly say I never felt better than at present. I gladly recommend 'Favorite Prescription' to all who suffer from female weakness. It has cured me and made me stronger in every way. Neither my husband nor myself can say enough in its praise."

The selfish seller who urges some substitute is thinking of the larger profit he'll make and not of your best good.

What Women Can Do In Educational Matters

THE manifestation of interest by mothers in the educational matters of their community can do much toward elevating conditions and raising the standards in the schools. They can be of the same value to the school as they can to the community in general.

Trustees are concerned with the business side of the school or municipal life, but women can find ample work along other lines. Woman's first duty of course is to make the home as it should be, but when the influence is good there and she sees room for improvement outside of the schools where, her children spend half their time, it is rightfully within her sphere to take such work in hand. All home conditions are not favorable to the proper bringing up of children, but if those mothers who preside over good homes concern themselves with perfecting school conditions they will not only be benefitting their own children, but also doing great good to those children who are deprived of the proper home environment and depend entirely on the school for any good influence they will ever get.

The teachers of a school can do much, and do accomplish a great deal, but with the proper sympathy and co-operation from the outside their work is made much easier and results are brought about much quicker. The effect on the pupils resulting from interest on the part of outsiders in them is apparent. They will strive harder and aim to better perfect themselves, for pride will have been awakened when the work is being watched by an interest-taking public.

If women concern themselves with children who do not go to school and succeed in bringing about the possibility of an education for even one boy or girl who deserves it, but who is unable to avail himself or herself of it through having to work, or for lack of shoes or books, great good will have been accomplished: or, if some street arab is thrown into this channel of discipline and turned away from the idling which so often leads to crime, the benefit of such work is incalculable, even though the street arab may never become a gentleman or a scholar.

Practical Subjects for Discussion.

PRACTICAL subjects for discussion and from the consideration of which much good may be gleaned are those announced for the prize Economic Essay contest instituted by a well-known Chicago firm and open to American collegians. The first prize offered for the best essay by a college graduate is $1,000 and the second prize $500. The subjects all have to do with economical problems in America and the prizes offered are intended to be a stimulant to students to study out and reason solutions to these serious matters which confront the American people. College students having a knowledge of the principles of economics have a good foundation on which to work and if they also have keen observation and knowledge of the practical they are well equipped to advance ideas that will better conditions along various lines. They have time to work out their ideas and although the highest percentage of ideas submitted may be impracticable the country will benefit greatly by the contest if just one good practical idea be suggested, For instance, one subject that will form the topic of some of the essays will be "The best methods of avoiding resort to force by labor unions in their contests with employers." Another topic which may bring out thought of value is "The practical wisdom of freeing raw materials essential to subsequent manufactures from customs duties when entering the United States."

Always Keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the House.

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Kearney, editor of the Independent, Lowry City, Mo. That is just what every family should do. When kept at hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system. This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children, and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept at hand. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

SUPERIOR COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Judge Seawell called the calendars in both departments of the Superior Court on Monday. A resume of the proceedings is as follows:

The trial of the suit of Gagliardo et al. vs. Gagliardo et al. was set for March 13.

The suit of Gagliardo vs. Cuneo et al. was dropped from the calendar to be restored on suggestion.

The demurrer was overruled in the suit of Francisco Bossa vs. Frederick Quien.

The suit of the Levin Tanning Company vs. J. C. Stay, et al., was dropped from the calendar to be restored on notice.

The suit of Agnes A. Riddle vs. J. J. Riddle was submitted.

The order setting the suit of Maynard vs. Frederickson for trial was set aside and the matter was continued. This is the famous launch case from Petaluma.

The final accounts were settled and distribution ordered of the estates of Mary Coleman and Matteo Thmasmi.

A. J. Todd was named administrator on the estate of the late Jos. H. Gaddis, in a bond of $100.

The sale of a portion of the Western Hotel property in Petaluma to W. D. Ayers for $1,375, was confirmed.

Mrs. Carrie M. Deveraux was named executrix of the estate of E. W. Deveraux without bonds. The will of the deceased was admitted to probate.

The petition to compromise and determinate a lease in the estate of Thomas A. Nickels was granted.

Sale of personal property of the estate of Phil Ward, et al., minors was settled.

These probate matters were continued: Estates of Robt. T. Sacry to March 5; Daniel Alves Reveira to February 28.

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

SONOMA TO HAVE AN OPERA HOUSE.

Union Hall Will be Enlarged and Otherwise Transformed.

Sonoma is to have an opera house. Great improvements are contemplated in Union Hall, which will be enlarged and transformed into a fine assembly place and opera house equipped with a large, new stage and up-to-date dressing rooms. A new floor will be put in, which will make the hall an ideal ball room.

The improvements are to be made by the enterprising owner of the property, Mr. Otto Rufus, while new seats for the hall will be put in by the lessee of the Union Hotel, Mr. H. W. Gottenberg.

CHILD DROWNED IN WATER TROUGH.

Little Daughter of Henry Castagnasso Comes to Sad Ending on Monday.

The little daughter of Henry Castagnasso fell into a trough used for watering stock on Monday and before she could be rescued was drowned. The child toddled out into the yard while the mother was at work in the kitchen and climbing up a ladder which led to the tank was looking into the water when she lost her balance and fell in. It was five minutes before the little one was discovered head first in the tank and then it was too late to save her, for life was extinct.

The child was a great favorite and idolized by the parents.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H Henderson was brightened by the arrival of a little Native Daughter Monday morning. Mrs. Henderson is doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy of Sonoma visited the Dunbar Improvement Club and the Glen Ellen Women's Improvement Club last Saturday. Both clubs are in hopes they will call again in the near future.

Mr. J. G. Cromwell's team, while standing in his yard last Wednesday, suddenly became frightened and ran away. The wagon was considerably damaged before the terrified animals were secured.

The Woman's Club of this place presented Mrs. Haskell, the Secretary, a handsome belt containing the University of California colors, of which she is a graduate. The gift was made to show the club's appreciation of Mrs. Haskell's efficient services as its Secretary.

Mr. Bianchi met with a serious accident the fore part of the week by his horse shying and throwing him out of the cart in which he was seated. He was so badly hurt that he has been confined to his bed ever since. At latest accounts, however, he was on the mend and expects to be up and around in a few days.

The Ladies' Improvement Club of Glen Ellen will commence planting shade trees here on Luther Burbank's birthday. The trees will be set out on the school lot and around St. Mary's and Congregational churches. Refreshments will be served in Mayflower Hall and Rev. Mr. Chakurian will deliver an address.

The Dunbar Improvement Club met last Saturday. Mrs. Murphy of Sonoma addressed the members in regard to Glen Ellen being represented in the 10,000 booklets she is getting out for the advertisement abroad of Sonoma Valley. Mr. A. S. Woods, the secretary of the club, was appointed a commtitee of one to see what could be done for the enterprise.

Big Dried Fruit Shipment from Vineburg

E. E. Griffith shipped from Vineburg last Saturday one carload of evaporated apples, peaches and pears. The fruit was consigned to Rosenburg Bros of San Francisco through their representative Wm. AGAIN ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE.

Solani, Who Slew "The Bad Man of Glen Ellen" Again Faces a Jury

The Solani manslaughter trial commenced in Santa Rosa Tuesday before Judge Seaweil. The following jurymen were selected: Wm. Rayner, R. E. Burroughs, Raymond L. Randall, Alvin Weske, Chas. S. Cutter, John M. Strode, E. J. Anker, W. H. Plum, W. T. Albertson, James T. Townson, John Skiffington, W. A. Lewis.

Solani is the alleged slayer of John Gudotti at Glen Ellen last year and on a former trial he was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to serve a term of years in State's prison. The Supreme Court reversed the verdict and remanded the case for a new trial.

The witnesses called for the defense on Thursday included A. M. Hardman, George Vincent, F. Farnocchi, A. E. Gaige, James W. Gibson, Alfedo Pucci. They testified as to various phases of the affair being investigated and as to the character of the dead man. The latter does not appear to have borne a very good reputation for peace and quietness in the Glen Ellen community.

The witness Pucci testified as to having overheard a conversation between Guidotti and one Ricci, in which Ricci told Guidotti not to be "afraid of him" (Solani). To this the witness testified: Guidotti replied and told Ricci not to "talk so loud." When Assistant District Attorney Thompson asked the witness, in cross-examination why he had not mentioned this before, he said that he had not been asked about it.

The proceedings were not marked by an entire absence of objections and little arguments at times between the counsel. These bits of repartee served to lighten the monotony of the trial.

Constable J. H. Boswell, Deputy Sheriff Allen and Justice Gibson testified that Guidotti's character was bad as regards to his peace and quietness.

The two latter, also witnesses, testified that the character of Ricci was not good. Ricci is one of the principal witnesses. The testimony of G. Pancrazzi, a witness at the former trial, was read. Pancrazzi is now in Europe.

Death of Mrs. Pohley

Mrs. Ben Pohley, wife of the well-known railway engineer, died in San Francisco on Thursday. She had been ill for some time and leaves, besides her husband, two children, Vera and Charles Pohley. Mrs. Pohley was formerly a Miss Moloney. She was 32 years of age.

CLUB'S PRESIDENT TENDERED RECEPTION

Brilliant Affair Given in Honor of Mrs. Robt. P. Hill by the Sonoma Woman's Club

One of the finest gatherings in Sonoma for many a moon was the reception accorded Mrs. Robt. P. Hill, lately elected President of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, by her own club, assisted by the Glen Ellen Ladies' Improvement Club.

About one hundred and fifty friends and club associates of Mrs. Hill were present to congratulate her on the honor she has brought to this section, to exchange views on the distinction this lady of Sonoma Valley had conferred upon her and to make merry over it all.

It was an informal heart to heart affair free from conventional formality. It was as one big family assembled in reunion, and this is what appealed to every one present, particularly to Mrs. Hill, who knew she was being feted by her own people, who were fond of her and demonstrative as Sonoma Valley people ever are when they care. She may be accorded more formality, more brilliant homage, more ostentation during the year she is to be State President, but Sonoma's simple tribute will never be forgotten.

Mrs. Stearns, acting President of the club, opened the evening with an address of welcome in which she spoke beautifully of the occasion and concluded with a formal introduction of Mrs. Robert Potter Hill, the guest of honor.

Mrs. Hill responded and the beautiful simplicity and candor of her remarks went straight to the heart of every one present. She told of the way which lies before her and assured her hearers that she would ever advance the interest of her own valley and people whenever she could rightfully do so.

Dr. A. E. Osborne of Santa Clara was the next speaker, and was accorded a big ovation by his many old-time friends. He was as entertaining and witty as ever and enlivened the company with much clever repartee. He dwelt on the fact that Mrs. Hill was the logical candidate for the office she had received and also spoke of her loyalty, wherever she went, to her home club of Sonoma.

Mrs. C. C. O'Donnell of the Glen Ellen Club also spoke.

The speech-making was followed by musical numbers, Mrs. Emparan and Miss Kelly each rendering soprano solos.

John W. Kelly and Walter L. Murphy also sang.

Refreshments were served and social conversation and exchange of greetings between the Sonoma and Glen Ellen club members and their friends concluded a delightful evening.

EL VERANO.
By Occasional.

There are about twenty guests at El Verano Villa.

A new platform is being put down in front of the Bellevue Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray of San Francisco are spending their honeymoon at El Verano Villa.

Mrs. L. L. Lewis was visiting in Sacramento this week, returning to her home above here on Wednesday.

Tommy Mullen was down to the postoffice Wednesday on crutches. He has had a long and hard siege with his knee.

Willie Fowler, while at play in the school yard Wednesday, fell and dislocated his wrist. Dr. Thomson was summoned and set the injured hand.

Mrs. E. M. Hoen of Sacramento and children are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lewis. The Hoens have just finished the erection of a handsome new home in the Capitol City.

OCCASIONAL.

El Verano, March 1, 1906.

Congregational Church

To-morrow (Sunday) morning Rev. Mr. Cragin, the pastor, will officiate at the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper in the Congregational church, and will also deliver a short address on "The Church, the Bride of Christ." In the evening the reverend gentleman's topic will be "Training the Conscience."

Through the efforts of J. K. Bigelow a handsome loving cup will be presented to Supervisor Blair Hart by the residents about El Verano for his efficient work in in that district and the rapidity with which the big iron bridge and washout was repaired.

HARRY TENNY FIGHTS HIS LAST FIGHT.

Dies From the Effects of His Prize Ring Encounter With Frankie Neil

Harry Tenny, who was well-known here, is dead. He passed away last Thursday morning, the result of his terrific prize ring encounter with Frankie Neil at the Mechanics' Pavilion, San Francisco, on the night previous.

Every person in any wise connected with the unfortunate affair has been arrested and charged with manslaughter.

Tenny was a lad 22 years of age and used neither liquor or tobacco in any form and had no vices, but for all that he must have had a weak heart.

Tenny appeared in a five-round boxing bout in this place last spring and completely knocked out a clever San Francisco boxer in the fourth round. Tenny was a game little fighter and was well liked by all who met him. Those who witnessed the boxing bout in which he took part here now realize that that fight might have terminated in just such a way as did the fatal contest in San Francisco Wednesday night, for evidently Tenny was not sound and might have succumbed at any time.

The tragedy has considerably dampened the ardor of fight promoters and enthusiasts all over the State, following as it did the fatal ring encounter at Colma only a few weeks ago.

Death of Mrs. Bidaux

Mrs. Philomene Bidaux, residing on the Lamotte place near Glen Ellen, died on Tuesday after a lingering illness. Deceased was 52 years of age. The family were in straightened circumstances and could not afford a hearse, but upon arriving here on the way to the cemetery the local undertaker donated the use of his hearse, and the little band of mourners proceeded on their way to the burying ground, where the last sad rites were said by the priest and the body interred in Catholic soil.

Will Take Souvenirs to St. Paul.

Imperial Sonoma is to bs made known at St. Paul, Minneapolis, in May when our State Federation President will take with her to the big convention there a thousand or more envelopes containing some of Burbank's Shasta Daisy seeds and an outline of Sonoma's resources and geographical position in California. She will be supplied by the County Board of Trade.

Automobile vs. Shank's Mare.

Marcy Beretta and Theodore Kiser took a spin to the Half-way House, on the Petaluma road, last Monday evening, in an automobile, returning quite late at night on shank's mare. Ask them, and they will tell you all about it.

As we go to press the barometer is falling and indications point to more rain.

GUEST OF HONOR AT VIOLET LUNCHEON

Mrs. Hill and Glen Ellen Woman's Club Entertained by Mrs. C. C. O'Donnell

Mrs. C. C. O'Donnell delightfully entertained Mrs. Robt. P. Hill and the Glen Ellen Ladies' Improvemen. Club on Saturday afternoon last at her handsome country home "Casa Cozy."

After the regular order of business of the club the guests were invited to partake of a violet luncheon. The dining room was decorated in the beautiful violet shades and the table was a lovely sight with its bouquets of fragrant little blossoms. The place cards were in dainty violet designs and the violet tones were even carried out in the icings on the cakes, in the wine jelly and the candies.

A delicious repast was partaken of and at the serving of the dessert a novel idea was introduced. Each guest, having given her birthday date, found her fortune written out on the back of her place card, the reading of which caused great merriment.

During the luncheon Mrs. Haskell, the club's secretary, was presented with a handsome belt with jeweled buckle for her faithful and efficient services as an officer of the organization.

Mrs. Corbaley made the presentation in a neat and witty speech, to which Mrs. Haskell appropriately responded.

Mrs. Hill also spoke and was listened to with marked attention.

Mrs. O'Donnell was always a delightful hostess and her guests were accorded a royal time from the time they arrived until their departure.

SECRETS OF THE BODY.

The Progress Science Has Made In Two Hundred Years.

A century ago the work of the modern surgeon would have been denounced by the theologians, who then ruled mankind, as audacious intrusions into the exclusive jurisdiction of God. Two centuries ago, or, at the furthest, three, the man of science who would take out the viscera of a man, cut out their disease and put them back would have been fortunate to escape the stake or the block. But the audacious invader of the secrets of the body, the beneficent healer who, with his vial or his knife, lessens the miseries of humanity, diminishes or destroys pain, prolongs life and smooths its pathway to the grave—this is now the man who appeals most strongly to his fellow beings. For him and his training the captains of industry are pouring out their millions, building him colleges and laboratories, endowing professorships, while the world at large hails him as a man of power and influence at a time when wealth is accumulating and when men are not decaying. More and more, very likely, we shall see the strong men of the college classes choosing medicine, although the time has not yet come for domination over the lawyer, who is now engaged in settling the direction and the form in which the captains of industry shall carry on their development of the world's wealth. The time seems to be coming, however, when the indefinite prolongation of human life and the destruction of the enemies of human health, a work which almost suggests the creative power, will be the task that will call for and will receive the service of the best training of our colleges and universities—that is, when the appeal of medicine and surgery will be addressed inevitably to the best in every college class, just as once the call came from the ministry and then from the bench and bar and senate house.—Harper's Weekly.

WHAT "WHIRLERS" ARE.

And the Incident From Which It Is Said They Got Their Name.

"There was a dealer in haberdashery," said a college professor, "to whom a teamster once came and said, 'I want to get a pair of whirlers, sir.'

"'Whirlers?' said the haberdasher. 'What on earth are whirlers?'

"'Why, stockings with the feet cut out,' the teamster answered.

"'Oh!' said the haberdasher. 'Well, I haven't any whirlers, but I've got some very excellent stockings. Suppose I show you some.'

"'All right,' the teamster said.

"So the haberdasher exhibited the best stockings he had in his shop, and the other selected a fine pair, saying:

"'I suppose you don't mind making whirlers out of them for me?'

"'Not at all,' retorted the other, and with a pair of shears he cut the feet off the stockings.

"'Now,' said the teamster, 'how much are they?'

"'Fifty cents, the same as before, of course.'

"'Fifty cents? Why, I never paid more than 10 cents anywhere,' said the teamster, and he smiled meaningly and made as if to depart.

"'Hold on!' the haberdasher cried. 'Don't leave me in a lurch like this. The price of these stockings is 50 cents.'

"'They're whirlers, not stockings, now,' the other said.

"'Well, take them, then. You've done me. Take your whirlers,' said the haberdasher.

"And since that time," the professor concluded, "whirlers has been the name for stockings without feet."—New York Tribune.

A Cold Blooded Gambler.

The French court was at one time a hotbed of gambling. Louis XIV. would play for heavy stakes night after night, and many courtiers were ruined at his table. His successor, who lacked his predecessor's geniality and good nature, was an even greater devotee of the card table. The story is told that when this king was playing one evening a gentleman present was seized with apoplexy. "M. de Chauvelin is ill," one of the courtiers ventured to tell Louis. "Ill!" said the king, quite unmoved. "He is dead. Take him away. Spades are trumps, gentlemen."

Instincts That Lead to Death.

Professor Mivart proved that there are "instincts" that lead to death by failing to adapt themselves to a change of circumstances. Migratory quail by thousands perish in the deserts of northern Africa, where their ancestors used to find a comfortable winter resort, abounding with forests and even with grain fields, if we shall credit Pliny's account of the Numidian coast lands. The forests are gone, but myriads of quail still follow in the same route at the risk of starvation.

He Didn't Know the Sex.

Mother—Do you think that young man has matrimonial intentions, my dear?

Daughter—I certainly do, mamma. He tried to convince me last night that I looked prettier in that two dollar hat than in the one that cost twenty.—Judge.

With Good Reason.

She—Now that we are going to be married we must begin to save. Promise me you will do nothing you cannot afford.

He—But in that case I would have to break off the engagement.—Life.

Railroad Fares Again Lowered.

Commencing February 15th and ending April 7th, passenger rates from the East to California will be cut almost in half:

From Kansas City	$25.00
Omaha	25.00
St. Louis	30.00
Chicago	33.00
New York	50.00
Boston	49.90

Correspondingly low rates will be made from other cities in the East and South, and from Europe.

Now is the golden opportunity to bring your friends to California.

You may deposit passage and expense money with me and I will furnish ticket direct to the passenger at his home and arrange all details of his trip without cost.

Write to me for further particulars.

Cured Consumption.

Mrs. W. B. Evans, Clearwater, Kansas, writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago and since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold at Simmons' drug store.

Christmas at the North Pole.

The candles burn on the Christmas tree;
They burn with a ruddy flame.
And the little Esquimo looks with glee
Upon picture book and game.

He dances in ecstasies of delight,
And he claps his hands for joy
And then climbs into the branches bright,
Where jingles the rosy toy.

Then with an expression of peace supreme
And a twinkle of heartfelt fun
The candles he plucks in a lotos dream
And gobbles them one by one.
—R. K. Munkittrick in New York Herald.

Afflicted With Rheumatism.

"I was and am yet afflicted with rheumatism," says Mr. J. C. Bayne, editor of the Herald, Addington, Indian Territory, "but thanks to Chamberlain's Pain Balm am able once more to attend to business. It is the best of liniments." If troubled with rheumatism give Pain Balm a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. One application relieves the pain. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

The Best Cough Remedy

S. L. Apple, ex-Probate Judge, Ottawa county, Kansas, writes: "This is to say I have used Ballard's Horehound Syrup for years, and that I do not hesitate to recommend it as the best cough syrup I have ever used." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold at Simmons' drug store.

Historic Wheat.

Experts on the subject of bread grains say that wheat can be traced back into the dim past across the line marked by the advent of historic man into the dim shades of the stone age. It has been known in Egypt and in the valleys of the Euphrates and the Tigris since the time when history "runneth not to the contrary." The prehistoric races which formerly lived in the famous "lake dwellings," which were built on platforms supported by piles driven in the lakes of Switzerland, had their mealing stones, wheat mortars, sickles and other grain harvesting and flourmaking apparatus at least 4,000 years ago. Wheat found in ancient Egyptian tombs and in the ruins of the lake dwellings referred to is identical with that which we use today.

An Expensive Burial Ground.

Burial in Westminster abbey is an expensive honor, although the sums exacted are considerably less than they were up to the middle of the last century. The fees for interment are arranged on the following scale: To the Fabric fund, £26, £36 or £46, according to the degree of the person to be buried. Other fees to dean, canons, choir, officers, verger, etc., £34 2s. 2d. In lieu of scarves, etc., for choir, etc., £31 2s. 3d., making altogether £91 4s. 8d., £101 4s. 8d. or £111 4s. 8d., according to degree. Formerly the fees amounted to £150 or £160, besides the scarves, hatbands and gloves charged in the undertaker's bill.

A Natural Conclusion.

A little New York girl, whose brief experience of life was confined to existence in an apartment house, was visiting in Philadelphia not long ago. One afternoon, to amuse the child, her cousin showed her a number of photographs and views, meanwhile explaining and answering questions concerning them. One of them was a picture of Windsor castle, which, she was told, was the residence of the late Queen Victoria. After looking at it a moment she innocently inquired, "What floor did she live on?"—Lippincott's.

Laid His Fortune at Her Feet.

"He done tol' me," said Miss Daphne Dairymple, "dat if I would marry him he'd lay his fortune at my feet."

"An' did he do it?" asked Miss Miami Brown.

"Yas, he sho' did. It took his las' cent to pay foh fohteen yahds of ingrain cyarpet."—Washington Star.

Still Free.

Miss Gaussip—I understand that you are as good as married to Miss Roxley. Mr. Bacheller—Just as good and even better. I'm not going to be married to anybody.—Philadelphia Ledger.

To equal a predecessor one must have twice his worth.—Gracian.

Always Keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the House.

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Kearney, editor of the Independent, Lowry City, Mo. That is just what every family should do. When kept at hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system. This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children, and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept at hand. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Constable and His Picture.

Constable, the eminent British painter, once sat on the hanging committee of the British Royal academy when a small landscape was brought up for judgment and pronounced "awfully bad" by everybody but himself. He rose and made a short and startling speech. "That picture was painted by me. I had a notion that some of you didn't like my work, and this is a pretty convincing proof. I am very much obliged to you." When his colleagues recovered from their stupefaction the head carpenter was bidden to bring back the picture. But Constable would not have it. "Out it goes!" he said grimly.

Give Health, Vigor and Tone.

Herbine is a boon for sufferers from anaemia. By its use the bload is quickly regenerated and the color becomes normal. The drooping strength is revived. The languor is diminished. Health, vigor and tone predominate. New life and happy activity results. Mrs. Belle H. Shriel, Middlesborough, Ill., writes: "I have been troubled with liver complaint and poor blood, and have found nothing to benefit me like Herbine. I hope never to be without it. I have wished that I had known of it in my husband's life time." 50c. Sold at Simmons' drug store

A Monument to Cheerfulness.

The following quaint epitaph is to be seen in Crayford churchyard, Kent. It strikes as one of the very prettiest monuments to cheerfulness in all Merrie England: "Here lieth the body of Peter Isnel (thirty years clerk of this parish). He lived respected as a pious and a mirthful man and died on his way to church to assist at a wedding on the 31st day of March, 1811, aged seventy years. The inhabitants of Crayford have raised this stone to his cheerful memory and as a tribute to his long and faithful service."—London Standard.

A Hint to Travelers.

While in Suffolk, Va., Henry Croll, Jr., proprietor of the Beaverton, Mich., Hardware Co., was taken very sick with bowel trouble. A traveling salesman from Saginaw, Mich., advised him to get a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which he did. "It soon cured me, and I take pleasure in recommending it," he says. No one should leave home on a journey without a bottle of this remedy. It is almost sure to be needed and is not obtainable while on steamships or cars. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Invaluable for Rheumatism.

"I have been suffering for the past few years with a severe attack of rheumatism and found that Ballard's Snow Liniment was the only thing that gave me satisfaction and tended to alleviate my pains. March 24, 1902. John C. Degnan, Kinsman, Ill." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Act Quickly

Look out for that "rainy day!"

It comes sooner or later for so many—we can't tell to-day who may want on the morrow.

Prepare now while you are able for any misfortune that may overtake you. Don't run any risks.

Here is something that will help you provide for the rainy day—an investment that carries with it unusual benefits and proves its value from the minute you buy the stock.

Smith's Cash Store is well and favorably known all over the West. Its reputation is of the best and in volume of business it is making tremendous strides forward every year. Some five years ago the stock was selling for $5.00 a share. Today the price is $10.00 a share. These figures demonstrate what a thriving institution is this biggest Mail Order House on the Pacific Coast.

Each share of stock is guaranteed to earn 6 per cent a year. But the greatest benefit is derived by the stockholder from the discounts given to the holders of five or more shares of stock. You can buy anything to eat, use or wear at the same price the goods would cost your local dealers. We call them "Owner's Prices."

Suppose you buy goods that altogether cost $50 at our wholesale rate. If you are a stockholder you get a discount amounting to $2.50, and your bill is only $47.50. The saving you will make in one year in addition to the earnings will in all probability more than cover the investment.

Year after year you will be effecting big savings. But should hard times knock at your door—and you must not be too sure that something of that sort will not happen—think what it will mean to you to be able to buy everything at cost prices. It might be the very thing that would help you to survive the period of distress.

We are increasing the amount of our capital stock. We are telling you about the stock because we think you ought to invest for your own sake. You couldn't buy stock in any other concern that would pay you so well.

It will not be long before the price of the stock is advanced. You know that means there are not many days remaining in which you can take advantage of this great offer.

For your convenience we are printing a coupon which you ought to fill out—it does not obligate you in any way. Send it at once.
